

What You Give Me © 1988 Laura G. Lindgren

To walk in your forest, To graze in your pasture, E - B7
To fly in your starry black night, A - E
Such is the garden, such the devotion, A - E
Such is the fountain of love in my heart. B7 - E - A - E - A

To flow in your river, To gaze at your colors, E - B7
To sway in your treetops so high. A - E
Such is the garden, such the devotion, A - E
Such is the fountain of love in my heart. B7 - E - A - E - A

What you give me is a doorway to God. G#m - E
Let us bathe in the Now, A - B - E
Never grasping at the days ahead, A - B - G#m
Just a patience of the heart in the pastures of truth, A - B7 - A - B7
And love, trembling love. E - B7 - E - A - E - A

To let out your kite string, To feel your dark ocean,
To play in the breakers at dawn.
Such is the garden, such the devotion,
Such is the fountain of love in my heart.

To shatter on your hard floor, To dance in your cobwebs,
To sing the song of our death,
Such is the garden, such the devotion,
Such is the fountain of love in my heart.

You are teaching me songs that I never dreamed of, G#m - E - A - B - E
Opening worlds that I never hoped for, A - B - G#m
I'm breathing my breath, I'm dying my death, A - B7 - A - B7
Sing that the world doesn't end. E - B7 - E - A - E - A

To read your sad story, To bask in your glory,
To sit in the presence of God.
Such is the garden, such the devotion,
Such is the fountain of love in my heart.

To know beyond knowing in the patience of being,
Beyond thought, beyond wanting to know,
Such is the garden, such the devotion,
Such is the fountain of love in my heart. B7 - E - A - E - A - E
